East view of villa. On the right six concrete columns in the front porch lead to the main entrance. Double doors open to a vast space obtained by three original rooms. This is the original structure of the manor. Considering the long front porch as a common meeting place, it already offers a nice opened and covered sojourn. The villa could be a place for smaller nucleous buildings on the property with use of an enclosed, heated swimming pool (with shower and bathroom). Ideal for aging, self sufficient people who love nature and open space. On the northern side of the manor there are two private entrances. One in the front and one in the back. There is an additional, autonomous entrance to the area on the ground floor, which could be incorporated to amplify the villa or used as rental.

Notice the central part of the circular driveway to the main entrance from main street. A second private entrance leading to the separate guest house and the ground floor starts on Monument Drive, across from Robinson Springs public park. In the background are part of the trees on the property. In this area is possible to connect the two entrances from Main St. and Monument Dr. and, if desired it could be possible to create an internal viability to urbanize the entire property using the knoll which characterizes it with living as well as commercial buildings.

The property is for sale. Alternative options are considered. It could be an ideal development for self sufficient senior citizens.

The owners could participate to form a community of self sufficient contemporaries with common services.
